
Architectural Invariant: Four physical infrastructure nodes do not equal microservices. The infrastructure is distributed across four containers, but all backend domains reside in one deployable application process.